Applying the same logic, any individual, or top executives of Indian companies or multinationals, can be fined for non-compliance, if they own a significant stake of 10% in the company

The recent Ministry of Corporate Affairs penalty of ₹27 lakh, on Satya Narayana Nadella, Chairman, and CEO of Microsoft, and eight other executives, for violating Significant Beneficial Owners (SBO) norms, related to the LinkedIn Technology Information case, is set to open a Pandora's box.
